Bill Gray Pledges To Operate City In Business-Like Manner If Elected Mayor

Bill Gray, local auctioneer and real estate agent, who is among the three candidates seeking the office of Mayor of South Fulton, today pledged that if he is elected mayor he will carry out the duties of the office as directed by law—to treat all citizens equally, favoring no individual or group.

Mr. Gray further stated that he will see that the business of the City of South Fulton is operated in a business-like manner, to see that the funds of the city are spent for that which benefits the city and to see that no funds are wasted.

The candidate, a very friendly man, with a cheerful disposition, continued, "I will help make the City of South Fulton a city which all citizens can be proud of, and one in which they will be proud to live, to work and to raise their families."

Mr. Gray is opposed by Mayor Milton Counce and Martin Henry Warren, an I. C. employee. The primary election in South Fulton

Diary of Doins, A Flag Contest

... And Mary Nelle Sees A Dream Come True With A Twin City Flag

Native Fultonians have a love for this twin-city land that takes several generations and a heap 'o living here to cultivate. "Newcomers" sing high praises for these joint communities nestled in the far corners of Tennessee and Kentucky, but the heart beats louder in those persons who can proudly say "my grandparents lived here." Some can say "my great-grandparents settled on that stretch of land."

Such a person is Mary Nelle Wright and she has a lot of company in the "proud land" department. Back at her old stand at Radio Station WFUL, where, among other things, it is her pleasure to promote community programs and bring about better understanding between the people in the area served by the station, Mary Nelle has put into motion an activity that she has wanted to do for more years than she wants to remember.

Mary Nelle presented her plan to the staff and management of WFUL and with their hearty concurrence and about a $100 in prize money the contest is on to design a Twin City Flag.

Right off hand, we'd say there's something exciting about design-

Paducahans Applaud News Of New Plant

Paducahans jammed the Columbia Theatre on Tuesday night of last week to assure an electronics manufacturer that they would welcome it to the city.

Mayor Robert C. Cherry told the crowd that the company seeks only an opportunity to operate peacefully and profitably in Paducah.

The name of the company, which is considering purchasing the building and equipment of the closed-down Magnavox Company plant wasn't given. Mayor Cherry, however, gave the audience considerable information about it.

Declaring that Paducah is "on trial" in the eyes of the nation and must demonstrate now its determination to establish a good industrial climate, Cherry asked the crowd.

In his letter of resignation handed to Mayor Lemon, Shaw said:

County Jailer Cagle Denies Grand Jury Charges; To Resign This Week

Melvin Cagle will resign his office as Fulton County jailer this week, according to his wife. He is turning over the office to Jailer-elect Baker Minton, because of his health.

"He received a check-up in Memphis two weeks ago. He has a bad heart condition and the doctors advised him to resign from his office," Mrs. Cagle told The News on Monday of this week.

Earlier, Mr. Cagle had indicated that he might turn over the job to Mr. Minton. "But if I quit" he had said, "It's not because of the Grand Jury criticism but because doctors have been advising me to quit."

Cagle said that months before the recent threatened Grand Jury indictment against him he had talked to Minton about taking over earlier. Both Cagle and his wife are in poor health. But Cagle said that he had not come to any agreement with the incoming jailer about when he would take over.

On Monday afternoon of this week, The News called the county jail at Hickman. Mr. Cagle was out, but Mrs. Cagle said that her husband was resigning one day this week and turning the jail over to Mr. Minton.

The new and reelected officers will take office in January 1962. Minton reportedly gave notice on his present job last week and planned to take over as Jailer on Monday of this week.

Cagle earlier vigorously denied the charges made against him by the September term Grand Jury at Fulton. The jail is in better shape now, he claims, than it was when he took it over Feb. 6, 1959 on an appointment by the Fiscal Court. Members of the court inspected the jail last week and according to County Judge John C. Bondurant were "pretty well satisfied" with the way Cagle had been handling the jail.

Charged with letting prisoners roam at large around town, Cagle said that except for work details of prisoners loaned to the city and county, there have been but three instances where he allowed prisoners out of jail. He said that he allowed one prisoner to go to Mayfield to sign up for unemployment for his wife and children. The prisoner was serving seven days on a public drunkenness charge.

Two other instances, Cagle recalled, were allowing prisoners to attend funerals of relatives. All of these were returned.

As to escapes, Cagle claims there have been no more than usual. Of three unrecovered prisoners, two walked off work details and one broke away. Others who have walked off from work details have been brought back.

Asked by a reporter if it were true that he had used prisoners to do work in his garden and on his home, Cagle admitted this fact. But he said it was no different than what other jailers had done before him.

The security mechanism, or cell-block device, originally used to lock each cell individually, has not worked in over ten years reportedly.

There are several individually-locked cells downstairs including one with a hard-board bed called the dungeon—reserved for bad actors.

M. H. Warren, Candidate for South Fulton Mayor, for Continued Growth, Prosperity

Martin Henry Warren, a car inspector for the Illinois Central Railroad, who is a candidate for the office of Mayor of South Fulton, is for the continued growth and prosperity of the town and to preserve the advantages and inducements that have contributed so much to the town's growth in the past few years.

Mr. Warren, a very likeable person who has lived in South Fulton all of his life, had the following to say when interviewed by The News this week.

"I do not think that this can be done unless—first, we create a budget for our City so that in time we may be able to convey to our taxpayers the savings that result from an efficiently run City Government; second, equalization of taxes; and third, unless each department of the City operates as closely as possible on its own revenue, so that the users of any one utility do not have to bear so much of the burden of the City's operating expenses; so that the users of any such utility may realize a lower rate by applying such revenue toward the redemption of bonds more quickly for a faster payoff of the entire bond issue of

Mr. Warren, a sincere-type of person, was born in Obion County, Tenn., February 21, 1915. He is the son of Mrs. P. C. Warren of Fulton and the late Mr. Warren.

The mayor candidate was graduated from South Fulton High School in 1933, then attended the University of Tennessee at Martin. He was employed at the old

Kentucky's Abundant Water Supply Will Be Boon To State Industry In Years Ahead

(Note: This is the twenty-fifth in a series of articles on Kentucky's economic progress written by Lieutenant Governor Wilson W. Wyatt, chairman of the State's Economic Development Commission.)

In just 14 years the United States will need an increase of well over 50 per cent in its usable water.

Since 1900, while our national population tripled, fresh water use has climbed from 40 billion gallons a day to over 300 billion gallons a day—an increase of over 650 per cent or 260 billion gallons a day. Total water use has more than doubled, on the average, about every twenty-five years.

Industry needs water in ever-increasing amounts. In the next 20 years, the water used by steam and atomic electric generating stations will have increased by 119 per cent while the amount of water used by all industry will jump about 92 per cent.

These facts underscore the great advantage to new industry of Kentucky's ample supply of water. There is no industry in America for which adequate water is not readily available in Kentucky. Our state is blessed with 14,000 miles of running water in its 31 rivers and 800 smaller streams.

All or part of five giant multipurpose reservoirs, covering almost 106,000 acres, lie inside the state. One of these man-made reservoirs, Kentucky Lake, is the world's largest in miles of shoreline. Six additional reservoirs, including the huge Barkley Lake, are under construction or recently completed. Three of these will lie entirely inside Kentucky.

We are fortunate in having one of the major sources of industrial water, the Ohio River. Where it first touches Kentucky, this mighty river flows well over 600,000 gallons of water per second. When it leaves the state, 664 miles west, this flow has increased to almost two million gallons per second.

Reserves of ground water are found in many parts of Kentucky and an accurate check of levels is kept from 250 observation wells. Some wells along the Ohio River and in far Western Kentucky yield as much as 1,500 gallons per minute. This ground water is responsible to a large degree for the extensive development of chemical industries in those regions.

Other industries which are large users of water and which we may expect to continue locating or expanding in Kentucky are electric generating, food and kindred products, textile mills, pulp and paper products, primary metal industries, and fabricated metal products.

Kentucky's abundant water supply and her continued wise management of this vital resource is another reason why our program of economic development - of creating new jobs - is rapidly moving forward.

A Safety Belt Could Have Prevented Tragedy

The tragic automobile accident that claimed the life of 15-year-old Jimmy Meacham on the outskirts of Fulton last Friday night must again point up the terrible urgency of automobile passengers using seat safety belts to keep themselves fastened in place.

The youthful victim was thrown from the car to his death. Had the car been equipped with seat belts (it was not), had the passenger been fastened in with such a belt, the accident would have been reduced to scratches and bruises.

The campaign to make vehicle drivers and passengers safety-belt conscious has been gradually swelling throughout the nation. Already one State—believed to be Wisconsin—makes safety belts mandatory on vehicles.

The long lists of fatal automobile accidents this year contains a high percentage of cases where a fatality occurred when an occupant was thrown from the vehicle.

Several months ago we printed on this page an account of a national Insurance Company which has representatives "on the road" in all 50 states every day in the year. You may remember that the company stated that, despite its best efforts to maintain a top safety record with these people, an average of seven per year was killed in accidents. You may also recall that the company recently made it mandatory that all its vehicles be equipped with safety belts, and that since that time only one fatality has been recorded . . . and that because the belt had not been used.

These are sobering thoughts on a pertinent topic which should be heeded by all. Sure, safety belts are a nuisance to put on, especially if one is all dressed up and the belt, pulled up snug, tends to wrinkle clothes and hamper movement in the car. But they are worth the trouble; look at the record.

If your car has safety belts, make sure they are used; if it does not, they can be installed for a few dollars by any dealer.

Personal Income In Kentucky Up 6.4 Percent In July; Gain Among Nation's Best

Personal income in Kentucky for first seven months this year rose 3.8 percent to more than $2.8 billions, heartening development that gave more than lip service to rebounding economy in Commonwealth.

For July, Kentuckians' personal income rose 6.4 percent to $418.3 millions. At this healthy rate, total income for this calendar year will run nearly $5 billions in Kentucky.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of THE CIVIL WAR DAY-BY-DAY (Material is from publication of exactly one hundred years ago, original wording from references in the Library of Congress, Washington. Reporting in the papers was usually very one-sided; we seek to be fair in coverage and preserve a national balance. . . . ED.)

BY WILLIAM H. McHENRY

Second week in October, 1861

Small battles were taking place everywhere in Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Missouri during the late summer and early fall of 1861. Small country towns made news with small fights . . . small simply because the battles such as Wilson's Creek and Manassas were so much larger.

Around Harper's Ferry the rival forces were in daily contact, Romney, West Virginia, changed hands several times, as did Williamsport, Martinsburg, and even Harper's Ferry itself. Every ford across the Potomac could develop into a shooting battle in which men were wounded, killed, or captured.

News of small battles filled the papers. There was Toney's Creek, Coal River, Greenbrier River, Santa Rosa Island, Big Creek, Pensacola, Wet Glaze, Underwood's Farm, Hurricane Creek, Hanging Rock, Boone Court House and dozens of others.

In Tennessee a Union movement was underway too soon, and in Sevier County at a place called Paw Paw Hollow a fight, said the papers "killed 25 Unionists." (Sevier County is the home of Gatlingburg and the higher peaks of the Great Smokies.)

A fight took place at Cornix Ferry in Western Virginia. According to the Richmond papers, the Union troops were "repulsed with heavy loss." The Northern papers reported that "over a hundred rebels were killed, and the rebel general Floyd's personal baggage was captured."

(At Cornix Ferry the Union troops were commanded by Gen. Rosencranz who would command the Union forces at Murfreesboro and Chickamauga.)

From the Indian Nation (Now Oklahoma) came word that the Creek Indians had sent a thousand warriors to fight with the Confederates, and the Cherokees had formed a Home Guard of 1,200 men. The United States had been paying annuities to the Indians, but the Indians seceded from the U. S. when the Confederates promised to pay the same amount of money.

News came from Mesilla in Arizona of a battle between Confederate troops and Union troops under Colonel Lynde. The Richmond papers claimed that on September 27, 1861, Col. Lynde surrendered 700 U. S. Regulars to four companies of Texas volunteers. (The report was greatly exaggerated, but then most were. Nearly every paper reported that Jefferson Davis was very ill and that death was expected at any moment. The St. Louis REPUBLICAN had a headline which said: "Jeff Davis not dead again.")

The Civil War had been going on for half a year, the South had spent fifty million dollars, the North had spent five times as much, and the end was not yet in sight. In Washington the Pension Bureau had just started its first pensions to the wounded of Bull Run Battle. It would be over a hundred years before the Civil War pensions were paid, especially to widows of veterans.

People had not lost all their humor. The Louisville COURIER reported that a St. Louis publisher had refused to take the Lincoln Oath, and was "sentenced to 30 days hard labor." Democratic and Unionist papers promptly said that the publisher "was to read his own publications" as a sentence.

Lincoln was having trouble with the publishers of the nation's newspapers, and the papers were not always easy with him. Said one paper: "Petitions are being circulated calling for the removal of pretty much every member of the Cabinet in Washington." Said the Louisville DEMOCRAT: "Add the name of the President and send the paper down this way."

In New York Senator Dan E. Sickles had been appointed to a Brigadier General. The appointment had come in time to end a ticklish situation. Sickles, a popular but controversial politician, had appointed himself head of a new regiment which grew into almost divisional strength. Regular army officers had visited the camp in New York City, told the soldiers that their commanding officer did not even hold a commission, and had asked the soldiers to join their regiments. Sickles had the men arrested, tried, and told them they would be shot. (He frightened them and turned them loose. Even Northern newspapers scorned an army where a civilian could arrest Regular Army officers and try them under a court-martial.

Lincoln made Sickles a General, in time he became a Major-General, held an advanced position at Chancellorsville, and took his troops into the "Angle" of the Peach Orchard at Gettysburg where he lost a third of his men. At Gettysburg Sickles advanced with orders and the result has not been decided to this day. Friends credit him with saving the battle, but he could have lost for the North.

About Town With Ouida Jewell

My cousin, Bobby Bugg of Clinton, Route 3, and Jerry Carder of Arlington, Route 2, drummer and guitarist, respectively, with Ray Smith's "Rockin' Little Angels," are in Las Vegas, Nevada for a two-week engagement at the "Golden Nugget." Bobby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Bugg of near Clinton.

When we were in Las Vegas we visited the Golden Nugget and I found it a very fascinating place, indeed! I know the boys are having a wonderful time!

For the next few weeks I will be interviewing local candidates for the offices of mayor and city commissioner. If you are a candidate, please drop by The News office whenever you have a few minutes of leisure time and I will jot down some notes for a feature to be run in papers. As you noticed, last week we featured South Fulton Mayor Milton Counce and Gilbert DeMyer, a candidate for mayor of Fulton. We had an appointment with Mayor Nelson Tripp, but something prevented the mayor from showing up. But, I'm sure we'll be able to get together soon.

Last week Eloise Hicks, a waitress at the Derby injured her hand by getting it caught in the wringer of her washing machine. She has recovered and is now back to work.

Was so glad to see our friends, Margaret Satterfield of Pasadena, Calif., her daughter, Roma, of New York City, and her son, Truman, his wife and baby from Seattle, Wash. They are in town visiting in the home of Mrs. Rosie Harrison and dropped by our house Friday evening.

It was very interesting to hear what they have been doing since leaving Fulton. Margaret is nursing out in Pasadena, Truman works for the government in Seattle and Roma has been employed by National Broadcasting Company in New York. An actress by profession, Roma has appeared in a play in New York, and upon returning to New York (she left Fulton Saturday morning), she plans to return to her old job on a magazine and is looking forward to possible water and actor, has completed writing his first play and is hoping to have it produced in New York. They had planned a trip to Europe in April, but it has been learned that they will be having a visit from the Stork about that time, so they are cancelling their trip abroad for the present.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pat Burton of 1714 Bonita Avenue, St. Louis, Mo., who are the proud parents of a baby boy, David Broxton, born at St. Luke's Hospital on Oct. 4 at 4:40 p. m. The baby weighed eight pounds, three ounces. Mrs. Burton is the former Jane Austin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wales Austin of near Fulton.

We were really on the run at our house over the weekend. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Hamlett of Jackson, who had just returned from a Florida vacation, Mrs. Lillian Luther of Mayfield and Everette Bailey of Detroit, all relatives.

Saturday afternoon at 2 we attended the lovely wedding of my cousin, Brenda Gunter Paschall to Charles Jones of Cayce. The ceremony took place at the First Baptist Church in Clinton. Brenda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Gunter of near Clinton. Organist was young Edwina Bugg.

Then, Sunday morning we all attended church at the Dublin Baptist Church and had a picnic lunch on the church grounds.

Later, we visited with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bugg of Clinton. They have added a couple of rooms and remodeled their home out east of town. It is very beautiful!

Have you started your Air Raid Shelter yet? At home, we are getting our basement in order, just in case.

I'm not the scary type, but I think it just being wise to be prepared. At first, as those around me seemed to think I was silly, when no one was around I would sneak a little food or water, etc., into the basement. Now, I'm getting some cooperation from my relatives and friends, and they have all stopped laughing at me. TV parts on NBC. Her husband, a tory and foreign diplomacy from

Dongola Couple Held In Hicks Breakin Case Friday Afternoon

By Ouida Jewell

An ex-convict and his wife from Dongola, Ill., confessed at Clinton Saturday afternoon to county and state officials the robbery of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hicks near Fulton Friday afternoon.

They are being held in the Hickman County jail, as the Hicks home is in Hickman County.

Charged with breaking and entering the Hicks home, which is located between Fulton and Water Valley on Highway 45, are Stanley Simpson, 41, and his wife, Elizabeth, 31.

Stolen from the Hicks home were about $200 in jewelry, a coat dress, food and tools.

The Illinois couple was picked up in Wickliffe by police after area police were alerted by State Trooper Jean Smith of Fulton.
They offered no resistance.

Police in Bardwell gave chase to the speeding Simpson car but failed to stop it. Bardwell police, at the time, were unaware that the occupants were wanted in connection with the Hicks break-in.

Simpson and his wife first denied breaking into the Hick's home, but did admit being there.
Simpson said he stopped at the home and knocked on the door, police said, but he gave no purpose for his visit.

Hicks, Fulton stock dealer, who was passing by his home, saw the Simpson car there, but thought that his wife, Nettie, who operates a jewelry store and Western Union office in Fulton, had arrived home from work.

Mrs. Hicks identified tools found in the car as their tools, but the jewelry or the coat and dress were not found when the car was searched at Fulton.

Later Saturday afternoon, the jewelry was found in the upholstering of the car by officials at Clinton.

Simpson and his wife also admitted breaking into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Alexander near Water Valley several days prior to the Hicks break-in. There they took a television set, a diamond ring, shotgun and money.
Mr. and Mrs. Alexander are employed at Siegel factory in Fulton.

Carlisle County authorities plan to question Simpson and his wife in connection with a recent break-in at the Bardwell VFW.

State Policeman Jean Smith said that it is believed by police officers that the couple is responsible for several recent break-ins in the area.

Simpson spent six and one-half years in an Illinois state prison for armed robbery, Kentucky
State police said.

Board Member

Can't Profit

By School Deals

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 8.—If a member of the Falmouth School Board gets any financial benefits through sales to the board by his firm, he is disqualified from serving on the board.

Assistant Attorney General Ray Corns gave that advice Friday to Falmouth School Superintendent
Charles Browning, who wrote that Wayne Daugherty was the School Board member and also vice-president of the Daugherty Lumber & Coal Company.

Browning asked if the board could buy materials and supplies from the Daugherty firm and could contract with the company to re-roof a school building.

Corns said the statutes make a person ineligible for board membership if after his election he becomes interested—directly or indirectly—in any claim or contract against the board for sales or services involving school funds.

School Suit Awaiting Study

A Union City attorney is studying a copy of a suit, filed in Federal Court in Jackson last Wednesday, asking the desegregation of Obion County schools.

C. D. Parr, school superintendent, said that no meeting of the county school board is contemplated until attorney Fenner Heathcock completes the study.

The suit, filed by parents of three Negro students, names Mr. Parr and the 10 members of the school board as defendants. The suit claims the students were denied admission to South Fulton High School in August because they are Negroes.

The students were identified as Sylvia Vick and Juanita Morris, juniors at Miles High School in Union City and Brenda Kaye Carson, a ninth grader. Their parents were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Harvey O. Vick, Mr. and Mrs. Rickard Morris and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Carson, all of South Fulton.

The suit asks that the school board submit to the court a plan for desegregation and the assignment of teachers and principals on non-racial basis.

A South Fulton Negro leader said that the suit had been pending for two years, and when asked why the students didn't attend the four-year South Fulton high school, Rosenwald, he said that Rosenwald, which was made a four-year high school a year ago, did not offer the advantages that Miles colored school at Union City or the South Fulton white school offered.

Hickman County Home Agent To Receive National Award

"Not only a job but a way of life" is the way Mrs. Maxine Griffin, Extension home demonstration agent in Hickman county, views her work. And, on October 13, she will be honored nationally by her co-workers for a job well done during her 12 years of Extension work.

Mrs. Griffin will be one of the home agents receiving Distinguished Service Awards at the National Home Demonstration Agents' Association convention in Boston, Massachusetts.

Mrs. Griffin has been in Hickman county since December 1958. She works with eight Homemakers Clubs with 150 members, 10 4-H Clubs with 350 members, and one young farm family organization in the county.

Before coming to Hickman county, she was home agent for nine years in her home county, Carlisle. She had trained her leaders so well there that, after she left, they were able to carry on the Extension program without a home agent for eight months.

An active member of the Kentucky Home Demonstration Agents' Association, she just com-

Mrs. Griffin is active in Hickman county church and civic affairs, too. Her husband is a farmer.

She will receive the Distinguished Service Award at the final session of the national convention, which opened October 10. Presenting the awards to the 71 home agents from 39 states and Puerto Rico will be E. T. York, administrator of the Federal Extension Service in Washington, D. C.

Fourteen Extension home demonstration agents from Kentucky are attending the national convention, according to Miss Jane Jones, Henderson county home agent who is president of the Kentucky Home Demonstration Agents' Association. ### Increase In Pay Goes Into Effect

An increase of 25 cents across the board in the minimum wage scale for women and minors employed in groceries, drug stores, chain stores and some factories in Kentucky will go into effect Nov. 1.

The wage increase order, the first in its category in 14 years, was approved by Kentucky Industrial Relations Commissioner Owen Kerth after it was recommended by the State Wage Board.

Minimum wages currently range from 40 cents an hour in smaller towns to 50 cents an hour in cities. The State Wage Board held a public hearing on the proposed increases before recommending that they be put into effect. Most employers have been paying above-minimum wages, the Board said.

Prison Runners Go For Distance Marks

Chester, Ill., Sept. 8—One job specialty at Menard Prison was eliminated Thursday—that of runner.

"The trustees have gotten the idea, somehow, that the term means 'distance runner,'" said Warden Ross Randolph.

Runners on the prison's 2,400-acre farm used to do errands, carry messages, and take water to work crews. It was a highly prized job.

The runner job was scratched after James F. Webb, 21, Arthur, Ill., a runner about to be released from a one-to-five-year larceny term, quit the institution without notice Tuesday.

The same thing occurred August 18 when the fleeing runner was Lawrence McKnight, 29, Decatur, Ill. Both men are sought.

MOST FOLKS ARE familiar with the part our telephone servicemen play in providing good telephone service. You might not know, though, that a telephone serviceman can serve in another very important way, if the need arises. Throughout the Bell System, more than 165,000 employees—including approximately 60,000 telephone servicemen—hold first aid certificates! Each man's truck or trailer contains a well-equipped first aid kit, ready to use.

IT'S FALL AGAIN and there's so much to do—places to go—people to see. And more and more people are finding that shopping by phone is a good way of saving time and energy to do the things that need doing. Many stores today offer a telephone shopping service . . . their ads in the paper and the Yellow Pages of your telephone directory keep you in touch. So, next time you're in a rush, don't forget the biggest time-saver of all: your telephone.

REMEMBER, TOO, when you have a minute to spare . . . and when you can't spare a minute, THERE'S NOTHING LIKE A HANDY EXTENSION PHONE!

TO EACH HER OWN! On the subject of fall, extension phones, and such, just imagine how much the young lady-of-the-house would enjoy a Princess extension phone of her own? She could discuss homework in quiet . . . have fun-on-the-phone without disturbing other members of the family . . . and carry on her private conversations in private! Why not surprise the "princess" in your family with her very own Princess extension—soon. All it takes is a call to our business office.

AND, when you give her a Princess, make the occasion doubly important by having her name listed in the phone book! An additional listing is low in cost, and think how much she'd love it!

No Charges Placed Against Boys Involved In Tragic Accident Here

The boys involved in the tragic two-car collision here Friday night, which took the life of young Jimmy Meacham, their parents, lawyers and police officers appeared at the court house in Union City Monday morning at 10. Without appearing before the judge, it was decided by the officers that no charges would be placed against any of the boys—that they had been grieved enough—at least, at the present time, according to South Fulton Constable John Adams.

Young Meacham, 15, a Fulton High sophomore, died of a fractured skull and cerebral hemorrhage at Fulton Hospital at 8:30 p. m., about two hours after the accident. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Meacham. His father operates a grocery in Fulton and his mother is employed at the City National Bank here.

Funeral services for the youth were held at 3 p. m. Sunday at Hornbeak Funeral Home chapel here. The Rev. Truitt Miller, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated. Burial was in Greenleaf Cemetery.

The other car was driven by Thomas Lynn Connell, a South Fulton High School student. He and his passenger, Lannie McIntyre, also a South Fulton student, were injured and were taken to Hillview Hospital.

McConnell was released after treatment, but McIntyre remained at the hospital.

The collision occurred at the intersection of Grimes Road and Reams Road in Tennessee about a mile southeast of Fulton at 6:40 p. m.

South Fulton Constable John Adams said Connell was going south on Reams Road. Snow was traveling east on Grimes Road.

The Snow car was hit broadside by the Connell car at the intersection, Adams said.

The constable said the intersection has no stop sign. He said the Reams Road, however, does have a sign warning of a dangerous intersection.

The Tennessee Highway Patrol investigated the accident.

Meacham leaves, in addition to her parents, a sister, Cathy Ann Meacham; his grandparents, Mrs. C. L. Cook, and Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Meacham, all of Fulton.

Even on a lean diet stronger muscles than ever!

Talk of railroad ills has overshadowed the facts about railroad strength.

You can count on today's railroad muscle. It's strong enough to shoulder the demands of booming prosperity or national crisis.

It's young muscle—strong, quick, flexible. Stronger with fresh motive power, bigger freight cars, heavier rail. Quicker and more flexible with electronic signaling, automated freight yards and faster trains.

Today's Illinois Central freight trains roll up 50 per cent more gross ton-miles per hour than in 1943, the peak year of World War II traffic.

In fact, the Illinois Central can haul double the freight carried today.

This ability to double the load can save you money. The more we haul the cheaper we haul it. For you and all Mid-America this can make living more economical.

MRS. WRIGHT—
fund-raising campaigns held in Fulton County in the past years and gathered much information on the procedures for meeting the county's quota next year. Fulton County has one of the highest per capita averages of contributions of any county in the State.

In accepting the appointment Mrs. Wright said: "As polio diminishes, the National Foundation is directing more and more of its resources of knowledge and experience to provide total care for victims of other major crippling diseases. At present there is a general lack of knowledge on how best to care for birth defects patients and arthritis patients. Your dimes will again bring medical know-how to wipe out these diseases and I am happy to have a part in this important undertaking."

Mrs. Wright will appoint a large group of volunteer workers to assist in the campaign. They will be announced at a later date.

Two Negroes Die In Crash Near Columbus Friday

Two Memphis Negroes were killed early Friday in a car-truck collision in Hickman County, and a third Negro man, injured in the crash, is in John Gaston Hospital at Memphis.

Roosevelt Slater was killed instantly when the top of the car in which six Negro men were riding was sheared off after it rammed the rear of a farm truck. Curly Harris, 45, died shortly after he was admitted to Hickman County Hospital at Clinton.

A. E. Williams, 33, was listed in critical condition at John Gaston. Bobby Dawson, 26, James Williams, 31, and James Partee, 33, were dismissed after being treated at the Clinton hospital.

Hickman County Sheriff Curtis J. Vaughan said Dawson was driving the car which struck the rear of a truck driven by Curtis Morton of near Columbus. The wreck occurred on Kentucky Highway 123 about 6:45 a. m. Friday.

The Memphians were northbound from Hickman, where they had been living temporarily, to Columbus, where they were employed by Standard Dredging Corp. of New Orleans, doing dredging work on the Mississippi River.

Sheriff Vaughan said Mr. Morton, who was not hurt, had pulled from the driveway of this home and was also northbound.

TO HAVE NEW LIGHTS
The Clinton city council has ordered the installation of 14 new mercury-vapor lights in downtown Clinton, each light with a brightness five times greater than any street light in regular use there now.
